Dear Sir:

The Institute for Canadian-American Law along with the Aviation Law Department at the University of North Dakota Law School are sponsoring a symposium on "International Terrorism." The symposium is scheduled for April 2nd 1985 at the University of North Dakota located in Grand Forks.

We would like to have a talk of approximately forty-five minutes to one hour from each speaker as well as questions from the audience. Later in the afternoon, there would be a panel discussion including the speakers, selected University faculty members and local professionals with expertise or interest in the study of international terrorism.

So far, Professor Peter St. John from the University of Manitoba and Dean Peter Lødrup from the University of Oslo, Norway Law School have agreed to attend and speak.

This program has been scheduled at the last minute due to the uncertainty of Professor St. John and Dean Lødrup's schedules. I realize this is short notice to ask for a speaker from your agency. However, if you have a speaker able to participate, I believe that our program would benefit substantially. The audience would consist of law, aviation, political science, general students as well as some local law enforcement officers.

If you have someone that is available, you may contact either Professor William Thoms, faculty advisor, or myself to make final arrangements.

Our funds are somewhat limited but we would be able to arrange for motel accommodations for one or two nights as necessary due to limited air flights in and out of our city.

Sincerely,

Dennis G. Smith
Can.-Am. Law Assistant
